NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

This volume comprises a series of brief lectures delivered by two highly respected London Clergymen, in 1754—5, on such questions as are most likely to cause anxiety to the inexperienced and halting Christian.—Public notice was given that all persons under the ministry of the Reverend Authors, who were troubled with serious cases of conscience, might apply for information on the subject, concealing their names. The answers given are here attached, and they comprise a series of very judicious dissertations on almost every point of practical religion.—Episcopal Recorder.

We are pleased to see this new edition of a valued and well known old work. It was the favorite companion of many of the best Christians in former days, and contributed largely to their edification, and to the soundness and depth of their piety. The questions considered, are just such as must more or less trouble every believer, and have reference to every stage of religious experience. In this day, when religion is so much a thing of profession and outside show, it would be well if attention could be secured for such a work as this, whose tendency is thoroughly to probe the heart.—Presbyterian.

This is an excellent edition of this old and well established classic, which has been carefully printed from a late revised London copy. The paper and type are good, and as the religious world for the last century—for the work was originally published in 1755—has fully decided on the merits of the work, we feel that an exposition of its nature, or a commendation of its excellence, would be alike uncalled for and presumptuous. A book which lives for a century, and which one meets with in the houses of the humble, pious servants of God, torn and tattered from years of diligent use, with stitched back and broken cover, yet still faithfully preserved; such a book bears about with it its own credentials. Of this class are the Pilgrim; the Saint's Rest; the Afflicted Man's Companion; Fisher's Marrow of Modern Divinity, and Pike and Hayward's Cases of Conscience.—Presbyterian Banner.

Such books are rather unfashionable, for few at present care much for practical theological difficulties; it is, however, an excellent volume, and I rejoice to know that it has already a good sale, especially in your Western States. Let it still more widely circulate for good.—Correspondent of the Chicago Christian Times.

IN PREPARATION,

THOLUCK ON THE GOSPEL OF JOHN.

SIXTH EDITION,

Newly Elaborated, Revised and Translated,

BY

REV. C. P. KRAUTH,

PITTSBURG, PA.

PREFACE.—To such an extent, since the appearance of the fifth edition of this commentary, has Theological Literature been enriched with works which have exercised an influence on the Exposition of the Gospel of John, that we could not avoid the labor connected with a new Elaboration in every part of a Commentary, the changes in whose earlier editions had been but occasional. In the preparation of this sixth edition, we have used and had reference to the following recent Works. Neander's Life of Jesus, 3d edition; Strauss' Life of Jesus, 4th edition; Krabbe, Life of Jesus; the Critical Writings of Lützelberger, Schwegler, Br. Bauer; Lücke's Commentary, 3d edition; De Wette's Commentary; Ebrard's Scientific Critique of the Evangelical History; Mau, on Death the wages of Sin; and others. We could not use the commentary of Baumgarten, Crusius, nor Kostliu's System of John, in the body of our work, but have presented something from them in the Appendix. Among the older Expositors, of whom other Commentators have hitherto made no use, or but an occasional one, we have consulted throughout especially the following: Luther in his Sermons, Bucer, Crell, Maldonatus. Bengel also, has been used with yet more frequency than before. In this way the work has become more extended than in the previous editions. May it have the fortune in its new form, of securing a hearing and of promoting science.

The Eclectic Review, in a recent article on the original work, speaks of it thus:—

"We have felt devoutly thankful to the great Head of the Church, who has raised up a champion able to meet, by an exposition of the Acts at once so profoundly scientific and so sublimely Christian as that before us, one of the most pressing wants of our times. We have not the smallest hesitation in expressing our modest conviction that in no previously uninspired portion of her history, has the Church of Christ possessed such means as are here afforded her, of gaining a true insight into the meaning of her own glorious archives."

TRANSLATION OF BENGEL'S

Gnomon of the New Testament.

At the solicitation of many friends, Messrs. CLARK, of Edinburgh, Scotland, have resolved to publish a Translation of the above invaluable Work, so well known to all students of the New Testament.

Little need be said of the merits of a work which, published more than a century ago, has passed through numerous editions, which has been a magazine from which almost all subsequent commentators have liberally borrowed, and which, even now, at the present advanced stage of Theological science, is considered by all competent to give an opinion, to be as valuable as ever. To use the language of Archdeacon Hare, "It is a work which manifests the most intimate and profound knowledge of Scripture, and which, if we examine it with care, will often be found to condense more matter into a line than can be extracted from many pages of other writers."

The PUBLISHERS have, after much anxious care, selected as translator for at least the First Half of the Work, the REV. JAMES BANDINEL, M. A., of Wadham College, Oxford, a gentleman in every way competent. The work will be published in Five handsome Volumes, demy 8vo. PRICE TO SUBSCRIBERS $8 00, or by mail prepaid $2 00 per volume.

We are happy to announce that by special arrangement with the Publishers, we will supply the work in this country, and those intending to subscribe, are particularly requested to send in their names as speedily as possible, with directions for forwarding. It is expected that the first volume will be ready for delivery about November of this year.

The Suffering Saviour; OR MEDITATIONS ON THE LAST DAYS OF CHRIST. BY FRED. W. KRUMMACHER, D.D., Chaplain to the King of Prussia, and Author of "Elijah the Tishbite," "Last days of Elisha," "The Martyr Lamb," etc. etc. Translated under the express sanction of the author, by SAMUEL JACKSON. 12mo, cloth. $1.25

The leading article in a recent number of the New York Independent is wholly devoted to the subject of this work. Respecting the work itself and its author, it speaks as follows:

"It is refreshing at times to meet with one who views the work of Christ from the emotional stand-point, without immediate reference either to the dialectic or the practical. Such, in an eminent degree, is Krummacher—THE Krummacher of 'Elijah, the Tishbite.' A series of meditations from his pen, on the last days of Christ upon earth, has just appeared under the title of 'The Suffering Saviour.' The style of the author need not be described to those who have read his 'Elijah;' and whoever has not read an evangelical book of our own time, that has passed through many editions in German, English, French, Dutch, Danish, had better order the CHINESE edition, which has recently appeared. * * * We like the book—LOVE it, rather—for the vivid perception, and fervid emotion, with which it brings us to the Suffering Saviour."

"Krummacher is himself again! Till the present work appeared, he had done nothing equal to his first one, 'Elijah, the Tishbite.' We felt that the productions which he gave to the world during the interval, were scarcely up to the mark. In the present he comes upon the literary firmament in his old fire and glory, 'like a re-appearing star.' The translator has done his work admirably. * * * Much of his narrative is given with thrilling vividness, and pathos, and beauty. Marking, as we proceeded, several passages for quotation, we found them in the end so numerous, that we must refer the reader to the work itself."—NEWS OF THE CHURCHES [SCOTTISH.]

Thesaurus of English Words and Phrases. So Classified and Arranged as to Facilitate the Expression of Ideas, and assist in Literary Composition. BY PETER MARK ROGET, late Secretary of the Royal Society, and author of the "Bridgewater Treatise," etc. Revised and enlarged; with a list of Foreign Words and Expressions most frequently occurring in works of general Literature, defined in English, by BARNAS SEARS, D.D., Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education, assisted by several Literary Gentlemen. 12mo, cloth. $1.50.

A work of great merit, admirably adapted as a text-book for Schools and Colleges, and of high importance to every American scholar.

"We are glad to see the Thesaurus of English Words republished in this country. It is a most valuable work, giving the results of many years' labour, in an attempt to classify and arrange the words of the English tongue, so as to facilitate the practice of composition. The purpose of an ordinary dictionary is to explain the meaning of words, while the object of this Thesaurus is to collate all the words by which any given idea may be expressed.—Putnam's Monthly.

This volume offers the student of English composition the results of great labour in the form of a rich and copious vocabulary. We would commend the work to those who have charge of academies and high schools, and to all students.—Christian Observer.

This is a novel publication, and is the first and only one of the kind ever issued in which words and phrases of our language are classified, not according to the sound of their orthography, but strictly according to their signification. It will become an invaluable aid in the communication of our thoughts, whether spoken or written, and hence, as a means of improvement, we can recommend it as a work of rare and excellent qualities.—Scientific American.

A work of great utility. It will give a writer the word he wants, when that word is on the tip of his tongue, but altogether beyond his reach.—N. Y. Times.

The Christian Life; Social and Individual. BY PETER BAYNE, A. M. 12mo, cloth. $1.50.

Contents.—PART I. STATEMENT. I. The Individual Life. II. The Social Life. PART II. EXPOSITIONS AND ILLUSTRATIONS. Book I. Christianity the Basis of Social Life. I. First Principles. II. Howard; and the rise of Philanthropy. III. Wilberforce; and the development of Philanthropy. IV. Budgett; the Christian Freeman. V. The social problem of the age, and one or two hints towards its solution. Book II. Christianity the Basis of Individual Character. I. Introductory; a few words on Modern Doubt. II. John Foster. III. Thomas Arnold. IV. Thomas Chalmers. PART III. OUTLOOK. I. The Positive Philosophy. II. Pantheistic Spiritualism. III. General Conclusion.

Particular attention is invited to this work. In Scotland, its publication, during the last winter, produced a great sensation. Hugh Miller made it the subject of an elaborate review in his paper, the Edinburgh Witness, and gave his readers to understand that it was an extraordinary work. The "News of the Churches," the monthly organ of the Scottish Free Church, was equally emphatic in its praise, pronouncing it "the religious book of the season." Strikingly original in plan and brilliant in execution, it far surpasses the expectations raised by the somewhat familiar title. It is, in truth, a bold onslaught (and the first of the kind) upon the Pantheism of Carlyle, Fichte, etc., by an ardent admirer of Carlyle; and at the same time an exhibition of the Christian Life, in its inner principle, and as illustrated in the lives of Howard, Wilberforce, Budgett, Foster, Chalmers, etc. The brilliancy and vigour of the author's style are remarkable.
